

An Introduction to the Cornwallis Group

Tony Hopkin

Managing Chair the Cornwallis Group

History

- A small concerned gathering of analysts at ISMOR
 - New threats to world peace
 - OA addressing current or old threats
 - Inadequate opportunity to look at new approaches to new problems
 - Large workshops limit comprehensive exchange
- Out of ISMOR, in 1996, The Cornwallis Group was born

The Cornwallis Group takes its name from Cornwallis Park, Nova Scotia, home to the Pearson Peacekeeping Centre; venue for the Group meetings until 2003. Cornwallis Park, in turn, is named for Colonel Edward Cornwallis, Governor of Nova Scotia in the mid-18th century; Edward was uncle to Charles Cornwallis, the general who surrendered the British Army to George Washington, at Yorktown in 1781.

Mission

- A vehicle for excellence in analysis for the purposes of international peace and stability
- A bridge between national military agencies, other governmental departments, international and non-governmental organizations that often work together on the ground, but seldom meet in a reflective environment to discuss issues of common concern
- The group intends to reach out to those organizations, which do not usually participate in military conferences, to engage with them in establishing a common understanding of the wider constraints under which we are attempting to deal with new operational challenges

Principles

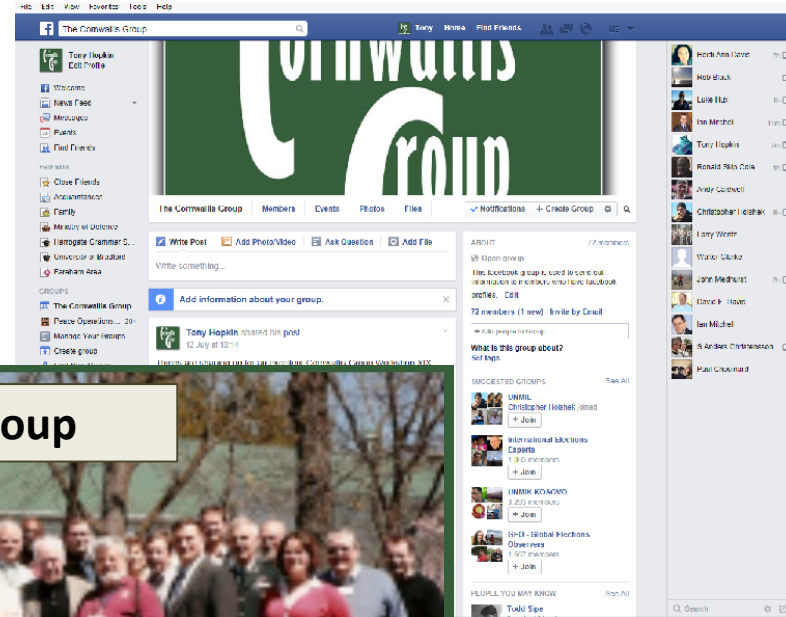

- A platform for new ideas, problems, and techniques to contribute to international peace and stability
- Conduct symposia and workshops, and publications
- Alternate US/CAN and EU
- Open to all who would like to participate
- All nations are welcomed
- Three day residential workshop
- Minimum of one hour of floor time
- Opportunities for presentations outside the themes

More than a workshop – a community

Cornwallis XIX: Analysis of Commercial & Market Force Roles in Conflict Management & Mitigation

- Private companies and Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) are increasingly considered a partner in the prevention, settlement and transformation of violent conflicts.
- Their future as part of the mix within operational theatres seems assured for the immediate and medium term.
- How has analysis has been used to produce a 'Blended Solution' plan of action to improve the effectiveness of the response?
- The Group has accepted presentations that cover issues outside the theme. This principle will contribute to the richness of discussions.

Enjoy the workshop!
